Opening Fall Enrollment, Fall 2017<sup>1</sup>

- The total headcount enrollment at all Maryland institutions is 357,352, a decrease of 3,765 (or 1.0%) from the Fall 2016 enrollment of 361,117. This is the fifth consecutive year in which enrollment has been between 357,000 and 362,000, which supports the interpretation that enrollment has stabilized. The continuous growth of the 2000-2012 period, and especially the rapid growth between 2008 and 2012, now looks anomalous. As shown in Figure 1, this year's headcount enrollment total is 16,007 (or 4.3%) lower than the all-time high of 373,359 in Fall 2011 and 316 (or 0.1%) higher than the five-year low of 357,036 in Fall 2013.

<sup>1</sup>This report highlights preliminary data on fall enrollment submitted by Maryland colleges and universities. Final enrollment figures presented later in the term may differ slightly from those included in this report.

- Enrollment changes varied by sector, as shown in Figure 2. The number of students enrolling at community colleges declined for the sixth consecutive year, from 123,824 to 119,122 (or 3.8%). This is the lowest enrollment since 2005, when 119,142 were enrolled. Of Maryland's 16 community colleges, 12 experienced declines in enrollment. Four community colleges experienced increases in enrollment: Baltimore City Community College (from 3,791 to 4,133, an increase of 9.0%), Chesapeake College (from 2,123 to 2,217, an increase of 4.4%), Howard Community College (from 9,502 to 9,723, an increase of 2.3%), and Wor-Wic Community College (from 3,098 to 3,106, a 0.3% increase). Garrett College experienced the largest percentage decrease in enrollment (80, or 10.6%), from 753 to 673, while enrollment at Community College of Baltimore County decreased by the largest number of students (1,844, or 8.7%).

- Undergraduate enrollment at Maryland colleges and universities declined by 5,245 (or 1.8%), from 289,879 to 284,634. Part-time undergraduate enrollment declined by 2,224 (or 1.7%) from 131,534 to 129,310. Full-time undergraduate enrollment declined by 1.9%, from 158,345 to 155,324.
- Graduate enrollment at Maryland colleges and universities rose by 1,420 (2.6%), from 71,298 to 72,718. This included increases in both full-time (1.9%, from 30,160 to 30,740) and part-time (2.0%, from 41,138 to 41,978) enrollment.
- Enrollment at public four-year institutions grew by 0.2%, from 181,354 to 181,754. This is due to increases in full-time (up 0.1%, from 92,418 to 92,470) and part-time (up 0.1%, from 45,980 to 46,024) undergraduate student enrollment, as well as part-time graduate enrollment (up 1.7%, from 24,197 to 24,603). Nevertheless, full-time graduate student enrollment decreased slightly (down 0.5%, from 18,759 to 18,657). Seven of the 13 public four-year institutions experienced decreases in total student enrollment. The magnitude of changes in total enrollment, whether positive or negative, was rather small at most institutions. Six institutions saw enrollments within 2% of 2016 enrollment, while four others saw changes of less than 5%. The largest decreases occurred at the University of Maryland Eastern Shore (a 10.6% decrease, from 4,904 to 3,490) and the University of Baltimore (a 7.0% decrease, from 5,983 to 5,565), while Bowie State University experienced notable growth (an 8.4% increase, from 5,669 to 6,148).
- Total enrollment at all private institutions grew slightly (477 or 0.9%), from 55,999 to 56,476. This was driven by an increase in enrollment at state-aided independent institutions, where total enrollment increased by 694 or 1.3%, from 52,050 to 52,744. The main source of this increased enrollment at state-aided independents was Johns Hopkins University, where enrollment rose from 23,917 to 25,151 (an increase of 5.2%). Seven of the 13 state-aided independent institutions saw enrollment declines.
- Enrollment at non-state-aided private institutions declined from 3,949 to 3,732 (down 5.5%). Most notably, Brightwood College (formerly TESST College of Technology) decreased in enrollment from 944 to 759 (down 19.6%). In addition, the Harry Lundeberg School of Seamanship has discontinued its for-credit degree and certificate programs to focus exclusively on apprenticeships, so it is no longer required to report on those students. In 2016, the School reported 111 students in credit-seeking programs. Among the 11 non-state-aided private institutions, only three saw increases in enrollment: Bais HaMedrash and Mesivta of Baltimore, which grew from 60 to 76 (up 26.7%); SANS Technology Institute, which climbed from 271 to 482 (up 77.9%); and Women's Institute of Torah Seminary, which increased from 99 to 106 (up 7.1%).
- The number of first-time, full-time students increased in Fall 2017 for the second consecutive year. As Figure 3 shows, the number of first-time, full-time students increased by 0.9%, from 35,176 to 35,491. Community colleges saw a 5.6% decrease in the number of first-time, full-time students, declining from 13,721 to 12,947. Across all public four-year institutions, the number of first-time, full-time students increased from 14,922 to 15,667, a 5.0% increase. The University of Baltimore County increased first-time, full-time enrollment by 235, from 1,524 to 1,759 (a 15.4% increase), and the University of Maryland College Park increased first-time, full-time enrollment by 643, from 4,559 to 5,202 (a 14.1% increase). However, this increase was not experienced evenly by all public four-year institutions. Six of the thirteen four-year public colleges and universities saw decreases in first-time, full-time enrollments. The number of first-time, full-time students declined most substantially at the University of Maryland Eastern Shore, where enrollment decreased by 138 students, from 698 to 560 (a 19.8% decrease). Additionally, while first-time, full-time enrollment decreased by only 81 at the University of Maryland University College, from 292 to 221, this represented a 27.7% decline. Finally, state-aided independent institutions experienced an increase of 172 first-time, full-time enrollments, from 5,840 to 6,012 (a 2.9% increase). Other private institutions also increased their first-time, full-time enrollments by 172 (a 24.8% increase), from 693 to 865.

- The increase in first-time, full-time students appears to have occurred without a decrease in the number of public high school completers, as shown in Figure 3 on the next page. Although the Maryland State Department of Education has not yet released data on the number of high school completers in 2016–2017, the number of 12th grade students in 2016–2017 was smaller than the number of 12th grade students in 2015–2016, and so MHEC estimates that the number of high school completers will also decrease slightly.<sup>2</sup> The ratio of first-time, full-time students to public high school completers declined from an average of .68 in the years 2005–2010 to an average of .62 in the years 2011–2017. MHEC is conducting additional research to identify changes in college-going patterns.

<sup>2</sup> MHEC’s estimate for the number of high school completers is 53,469. This estimate was developed by applying the percentage of 12th graders in 2015–2016 who completed high school (99.4%) to the number of 12th graders in 2016–2017 (58,303). See “Summary of Attendance, Maryland Public Schools, 2015–2016, January 2016,” at <http://archives.marylandpublicschools.org/MSDe/divisions/planningresultstest/doc/20152016Student/2016SummaryAttendance.pdf> and “Maryland Public School Enrollment by Race/Ethnicity and Gender and Number of Schools, September 30, 2016,” at <http://archives.marylandpublicschools.org/MSDe/divisions/planningresultstest/doc/20152016Student/2016SummaryAttendance.pdf>.
