Maryland Higher Education Sets Enrollment Record Again

The following report highlights preliminary enrollment data submitted for fall 2008 by the State's colleges and universities. Final numbers may vary slightly due to students enrolling or dropping out by November 15, the date by which final 2008 enrollment figures are reported to the Maryland Higher Education Commission

- Total headcount enrollment at Maryland's colleges and universities rose by 3.5 percent from last year, an increase of 11,352 students. This year's total headcount of 337,533 students once again sets a new record high.
- During the past 20 years, total enrollment in Maryland's degree-granting postsecondary institutions has grown by 36 percent. For 12 straight years, total headcount enrollment has increased.
- Maryland community colleges experienced the greatest percentile gains of any higher education sector, increasing their total enrollment by 4.3 percent (5,273 students) while accounting for close to half (46.4 percent) of the overall statewide growth. The public four-year institutions enjoyed the largest numeric gains in actual students, with enrollment for the segment increasing by 5,939 students, a 4.1 percent increase over last year's enrollment which accounted for over half (52.3 percent) of the total statewide growth. Enrollments at the independent colleges and universities remained virtually flat, rising by only 140 students (two-tenths of a percent overall) and contributing 1.2 percent to the statewide headcount increase.

- Total enrollment for the University System of Maryland increased by 4.2 percent (up 5,768 students) to 143,416 this year. At Morgan State University, total enrollment increased by 108 students (1.6 percent) to 6,955. Enrollment at St. Mary's College of Maryland grew by 63 students, a 3.1 percent increase.

- Full-time undergraduate enrollment in the State's colleges and universities increased by 5,574 (3.7 percent) to 156,009 students (yet another record high) and was responsible for almost half (49 percent) of the total (undergraduate and graduate) enrollment growth. Full-time undergraduate enrollment increased in all sectors: community colleges (4.5 percent), public four-year institutions (4.1 percent) and independent institutions (1.2 percent). The number of full-time undergraduates has grown for 15 consecutive years, increasing by 45 percent during that time.
- The part-time undergraduate headcount increased 3 percent over last year, growing by 3,320 students. This increase was fueled almost single-handedly by Maryland's community colleges, which recorded growth of 3,232 part-time undergraduate students. The number of part-time undergraduates also increased, if only modestly, at the University System of Maryland (1.8 percent, 504 students). However, Morgan State University, St. Mary's College of Maryland, and the independent colleges and universities all experienced declines in their part-time undergraduate enrollments.
- Statewide, the headcount of first-time, full-time undergraduates fell 1.9 percent, from 39,274 in fall 2007 to 38,547 in fall 2008. This marks the second consecutive year that the opening fall enrollment figures have reflected a decline in the number of new full-time undergraduates at Maryland campuses. The number of first-time full-time undergraduates rose at the community colleges (0.2 percent) and public four-year institutions (2 percent) while falling at the independent institutions by 12.9 percent. However, it is important to note that after the final enrollment data were received for the fall 2007 semester, the first-time full-time enrollment count was no longer below that of the previous year. This change was due to enrollments in non-standard terms such as mid- and half-term semesters that were not captured in the opening fall count.
- Full- and part-time graduate and professional enrollments once again set record highs. Full-time graduate and professional students rose by 2.5 percent to 25,732 while part-time students increased by 4.6 percent to 41,506.
- All sixteen community colleges experienced overall enrollment growth. The Community Colleges of Baltimore County grew by the largest number of students (1,247) while the highest percentage increase occurred at Frederick Community College (11.6 percent).
- Total enrollment also increased at all thirteen of the public four-year colleges and universities. University of Maryland University College increased by the largest number of students (1,590), while the University of Baltimore once again experienced the greatest percentage increase (7.9 percent).
- Total headcount fell at eleven of the thirty-one independent colleges and universities. ITT Technical Institute experienced the greatest percentage increase (44.2 percent) while Johns Hopkins University enjoyed the largest numeric headcount gains, adding 367 students. The largest decrease in enrollment at an independent institution occurred at the College of Notre Dame of Maryland, where enrollment fell by 467 students (13.7 percent). Over two-thirds (68.7 percent) of this decline resulted from the loss of 321 part-time graduate students.

- Women continue to outnumber men in all segments of Maryland's colleges and universities, representing 58.8 percent of all students. This year, the enrollment of women increased by 6,999 students (3.7 percent), while men increased by 4,353 (3.2 percent).
